Being the Hand of God: Godly Parenting in an Ungodly World

A Reformed child confesses, "It pleases God to govern me by [my parents'] hand" (Heidelberg Catechism, Lord's Day 39). Christian parents who truly love their children understand this. What are the goals and objectives of Christian parents? How do parents establish and maintain a godly atmosphere in their home?
How do we resist the influences of an ungodly culture?

Speaker: Prof. Barry Gritters

(Professor of Practical Theology at the Protestant Reformed Seminary, Michigan, USA)

Date: Wednesday, 12 January, 2022
at 7:30 PM

Venue: Covenant Protestant Reformed Church
(83 Clarence Street, Ballymena BT43 5DR)

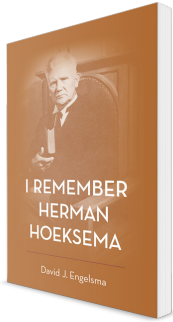

Books, CDs, DVDs and free pamphlets available at the lecture
Coffee and tea provided after the speech

All are welcome!

I Remember Herman Hoeksema

Prof. David J. Engelsma
(112 pp., softback)

A student of, and successor to, Herman Hoeksema as a professor of dogmatics, David J. Engelsma explains Hoeksema's significance as a theologian, power as a preacher, heart as a pastor, magnanimity as a controversialist, authority as a church leader and skill as a lecturer. Here we see Hoeksema apologizing for an editorial mix-up, bringing the assurance of salvation in Christ to a dying saint and, from his wheelchair in hospital after his ministry-ending stroke, naming the poignant parable he would preach on if he were able to deliver one more sermon. A delightful, edifying and page-turning little book on a great man of God.
